

Sorrell Maranello

Profile

I am a full stack developer with experience of a multitude of projects using PERN stack, as well as other libraries as frameworks such as jQuery, PHP, React/React Router and Redux. I have achieved all of this by using resources such as Codecademy and Udemy, while working full time as a registered nurse.

I am a successful and hard-working adult registered nurse; I have over a decade's experience in nursing. Progressing to Sister in charge, and then specialising in intensive care nursing.

I am a calm individual with a positive working attitude and have the self-discipline to learn new skill sets in my own time.

Career History

Princess Alexandra Hospital - Emergency Assessment Unit (EAU) - 2010 - 2016

This was my first job post-graduation, I worked alongside many other multi-disciplinaries, enabling me to develop my communication skills.

It was a fast paced and high-pressure environment, in which I learnt to be organised and efficient.

I also completed a 6-month rotation in the Emergency Department, allowing me to increase my skill set.

I was promoted to Sister in charge, taking on further responsibilities such as managing each shift and being responsible for a team of junior nurses.

Princess Alexandra Hospital - Intensive Care Unit - 2016 to present

My current role requires me to provide specialist nursing care to my patients.

I have completed in house training to learn these new skills; however, it is an ever changing, on-going learning environment.

I have developed my communication skills further as it can be an intense environment requiring a certain skill set to communicate with patient's relatives.
